District Profile

Located halfway between Los Angeles and San Francisco, the Fresno/Clovis area lies at the foot of the Sierra Nevada, in the geographical and economic heart of the agriculture-rich San Joaquin Valley.

The Clovis Unified School District is a K-12 public school system that serves the cities of Clovis and Fresno, some unincorporated areas of Fresno County, and the rural community of Friant. The District covers approximately 198-square miles, and has a student population approaching 38,000.

Each of the 43 schools in the Clovis Unified School District are reflections of their individual community. While every school shares a single foundation of standards-based curriculum and multiple co-curricular opportunities, each is slightly different based on the unique personalities of the students, parents and staffs that make up their neighborhood school.

Clovis Unified’s elementary schools serve students in grades K-6, while intermediate schools include grades 7 and 8, and high schools are comprised of grades 9-12. All schools operate on a traditional school calendar, opening in late August and ending in early June. Each school offers a full range of academic, visual/performing arts and athletic options for students. While class offerings may differ slightly from one school to the other based upon student interest, the curriculum and instructional materials align with California’s rigorous grade level content standards.
