Profile

The Lemoore Union High School District is a comprehensive high school district consisting of the main campus of Lemoore High School, an adjoining campus of the Gertrude F. Gundacker Alternative Education Facilities, and Lemoore Middle College High School which is located at the West Hills College Campus in Lemoore, California, a town of over 22,000.

The service area of the district extends to nearly 30,000, including Naval Air Station Lemoore, which provides approximately a fourth of the students to the school. The student body represents a cross section of American socio-economic life. Many of the students from Navy families have had the cultural advantage of work travel while other students' have experienced growing up in a society centered around Agriculture.
